It was a trip I'll never forget. I look upon it as one of the happiest moments ~~because date~~ that I've experienced in my life. Everything has changed a lot since then, but a photo taken in that trip reminds me of days when I was a child and the world seemed to be so simple and good.

I was six years old and I was growing up mostly with my mother, while my father was giving all his time to work. The more I grew up, the more I understood that I was missing my dad. I learned something new every day, I started reading books myself, and for me it was a great pleasure to find and remember new difficult words, such as „levitsering". I wanted my father to see me getting smarter and stronger, to share my small successes, but he always was not at home.

Then, one day, a great wonder happened. In the morning my mother came into my room and said:

- Wake up, I have amazing news for you!

And it was not a lie, the news turned out to be really amazing.

My father had a day-off, and he suggested to spend this day on ~~it~~ a little trip. Of course, I agreed with great delight, and after a couple of hours our family journey started.

While we were driving, I was staring at the window. So many ~~views~~ views, so beautiful nature, bright colours - it was better than any ~~any~~ cartoon! My mother noticed that I was fascinated by what was around and suggested:

- Shall we go out of the car and take a photo all together? ~~for 250~~

Sitting and waiting until the photo is taken was quite challenging. Because of the weather, that was rather cold that day. That's why my parents in the picture are dressed up in warm clothes. My father had to put on his old jacket and a cap, and my mom ~~had~~ covered herself with a blanket. Anyway, we got a good photo, which we all liked.

After that we decided to move on and find a place to have a lunch.

I didn't want this day to end and was really confused why couldn't we go on such trips more frequent. When we finally came home, I was very tired, but I realised that I've never been so happy before.

As I said, everything has changed a lot since that day. Now I am not ~~too~~ a pretty six-years-old girl from a loving family. I am seventeen, and my parents have divorced ~~a~~ long ago. We will never go anywhere together again. A photo taken in the trip reminds me of the days when we three were so happy together, it is still one of my most precious things. Sometimes I look at it and go back through my memories to that wonderful day, although I know it will never be repeated.
